

SECD RA Position

District-Wide
SECD Implementation

The Rutgers Social-Emotional and Character Development (SECD) Lab, directed by Dr. Maurice Elias, is seeking a highly motivated Research Assistant to assist several ongoing projects.

What would I do in this lab?

In our clinical/community psychology lab, we are conducting a project, called 'Youth Nation', aimed at engaging young people to take action and make positive change in their communities. The student to join our team will help to support the continued development and management of this project, including reaching out to potential school collaborators and posting relevant and interesting content on the webpage. In addition, this student will help to build and maintain our newly revamped lab website and work with our social media team to increase our online presence. This is a for-credit position.

Requirements

- Fluency in English required
- Ability to work independently and collaboratively
- Professionalism and attention to detail
- Must be an enrolled Rutgers student

Tasks

- Commit to 10 hours/week for 10 weeks during the summer and 9 hours/week for the fall 2019 semester
- Help prepare regular blog posts and school outreach for Youth Nation project
- Assist with updating lab website as needed
- Contribute to social media team, which manages Lab Twitter and Pinterest account
- Attend weekly team meetings

How do I apply?

If you are interested in applying for this position, please email the lab at secdlab@gmail.com with a cover letter, resume, a list of any psychology or statistics courses you have taken, and the name and email address of one reference.

To learn more about our current projects and Lab's mission visit our website www.secdlab.com
Or twitter @SecdLab